This Week in Wabash

---

Hello, Wabash,

I usually wish you a happy Monday at this point, but I was off work earlier this week for an extended holiday vacation. So this time I'll just say happy Thursday again. I hope your week has gotten off to a great start. (Even though it's almost over by this point, I guess.) I had a very busy but very fun four-day weekend. Sunday was my wife Ash and my 12th wedding anniversary. Monday, was of course Memorial Day. And then Tuesday was our daughter Emerald's fifth birthday. I think I need a vacation from my vacation. Luckily the weekend is almost here again, so that's good.

Just because it was such a big deal, I wanted to call your attention to two big projects which were published in last Saturday's paper. I hope you had a chance to grab a copy.

The first was the senior photos of all the graduating students at Manchester, Wabash, Northfield and Southwood high schools. We do something similar each year, but this is the first time since I started here in 2019 that we're publishing names and photos of all the graduating seniors and not just the valedictorians and salutatorians. (We're still going to be publishing those, of course, but those stories have been coming out as we get the information. We've already had front-page stories on the top students for Wabash and Manchester high schools. I anticipate we'll have stories on the top students for Southwood and Northfield in soon, as well. I'm just waiting for the final information.)

The second was the team photos for all the spring sports for all four high schools. We have published these pretty much each season of the school year since I started. (One for fall, one for winter and one for spring.)

Well, that's all I have for you today. Next week I plan to be back with you on Monday as per usual. I hope you have a great rest of your week.

Best,

Rob
